Screen Captures

1.

This is the initial HTML page of Bacto. Both the icon and background are in the 'img' file inside the folder. This page has a start button which redirects the user to another page for playing the game. Information regarding how to play the game is mentioned on side.
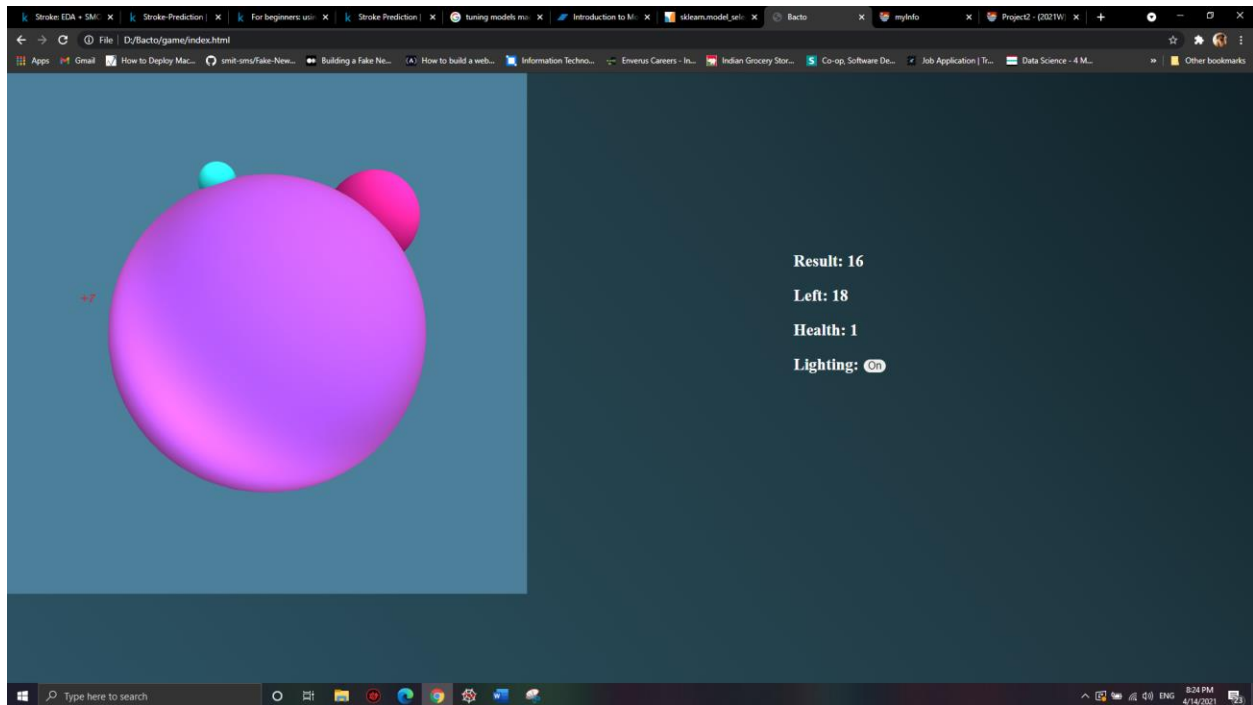

2.

This page is where the actual game is present. A sphere will be shown on the left canvas which is where the bacteria generate. The bacteria can be killed by right clicking on the spherical surface, And the sphere can be rotated by holding right click and moving to kill the bacterium on the other side. And on the right side the information regarding the scores is defined. The screen shows when the lighting is ON 3.

This above picture is when the lighting option is OFF or disabled.

4.

This one shows the score on left side when the bacterium is destroyed.

5.

This above message will be shown when the user wins the game by killing all the bacteria before health reaches 0.

6.

This message is shown when the user loses the game. To restart the game, just restart the webpage.
